I just got done doing mine and set it at .041 and the only reason I did it like that is because I hope it may make my spark plugs last a little longer. I asked in mechanic and he told me like anywhere between point .038 to .042 would still be fine. I just recently bought the car and I decided to change the spark plug wires and spark plugs into the spark plugs or so used. I measured it and it is ... My 2006 Chevy Impala dash readout says Engine hot ac off. What does this mean Dealer fixed the thermostat and still is running the same?
